What is the PCE?

Imagine your entire computer environment in the palm of your hand.

Imagine booting up your programs your settings your files anywhere.

Forget costly laptops and expensive PDA's an evolution is occurring and it's occurring now.

The PC has evolved into the "PCE"

Pinkerton Consulting believes that computing does not need to be expensive, it does not need to be monopolised by a handful of organisations. It needs to be simplified, and it needs to evolve.

The PCE uses existing technologies ingeniously crafted into a simple device that anyone can use, and more importantly anyone can afford.

The Portable Computing Environment does away with the expensive Operating systems and bundled software of a standard PC, instead it utilises open source software products to run your computer environment.

All for the cost of a blank USB drive.

Benefits of the PCE

- The PCE is available when you need it, on any host that can boot from a USB drive; at home, the office or anywhere worldwide.
- The PCE uses proven stable software with a user friendly, simple interface.
- The user can manage and tailor their own PCE to their needs and specifications.
- The Operating system and associated programs take up an amazingly small amount of space, leaving lots of room for documents and other important data.
- Not only is the PCE housed in the standard USB flash drive but also in the very savvy silicone wristband for even more portability - with style.
- The PCE can also be purchased as an Educational model that utilises security features to lock out material unsuitable for students and children.
